Subject: Occupational Safety and Health Training Videos

Attached is the full listing of Occupational Safety and Health Training Videos provided by the California State Office and the Denver NHRMC Safety Team. These videos can be used to provide training and information necessary for managers and staffs to enhance local safety programs and understand better how to prevent on the job accidents and injuries.

Each video presentation is available on an as needed basis (usually within two weeks of your request) and can be acquired by contacting the following personnel:

State Office Video Library - Jenny Peterson, BLM/FWS Interagency Librarian @ (916)978-4302 or Jim Anger, State Safety Manager @ (916)978-4521 (CA-944) by phone or e-mail.

NHRMC Safety Video Library - Barbara Klassen @ (303)236-6647 (RS-150A) by phone or e-mail.

All offices are encouraged to take advantage of these free, readily available video libraries. For additional information on the availability of these and other Training courses and materials visit the DOI SafetyNet @ <http://www.blm.gov/safety/material.html>.

If field offices wish to contribute to the State Office Safety Video Library, please send your tapes for inclusion in the State Library to: Jenny Peterson or Jim Anger, California State Office, Branch of Fiscal & Business Services, CA-944.

"A video on abandoned mine safety."

Utah's mining legacy goes back to the 1850s leaving us with an estimated 17,000 abandoned mine openings. These old mines present a multitude of hazards, any one of which can be deadly to the unexpected explorer. Possible hazards include oxygen-deficient or toxic air, radioactivity, hazardous waste, water hazards, explosives, and unstable conditions.

The Utah Division of Oil, Gas and Mining's Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program and the Utah State Office of the Bureau of Land Management have cooperatively produced this video as an educational tool to highlight the dangers associated with abandoned mines.
